

GREEN FOOTPRINT

06/04/2023 – 17/04/2023

THE ENVIRONMENT STARTS IN YOUR PLATE

THE PROJECT IN FEW WORDS

In these days, most food is no longer consumed where it was produced. An average meal travels more than 1,900 km by truck, ship and/or airplane before it reaches the table, and it often takes more energy to get it to the consumer than the meal itself provides nutritionally: for example, Argentinian meat travels 11,000 km, burning oil and releasing Co2 into the atmosphere.

The global food production chain effectively controls the market and the marketing, meaning that our food choices are limited to the products the supermarkets are stocked with and the products we have been told are healthy. In fact, according to the World Health Organization, about 1/3 of cardiovascular diseases and cancers could be prevented by a truly healthy diet. Not only that, but to follow market dynamics, a large amount of food is discarded daily and does not reach the shelves.

These are just a few examples of the paradoxical situation we find ourselves in, a situation where the consumer has such predictable and influential behaviors that, unknowingly, he is just following what large-scale production and distribution has planned for him.

What emerges is the need to get to the bottom of the relationship between food and the environment (connected to global warming), to go and find out, beyond market dynamics, how we feed ourselves, what impact food choices have on the environment, what path the food we find on our table takes, and what forms of production are truly sustainable.

In one sentence, the goal of Green Footprint is to open a discussion on the consequences of food choices on the environment and think about what we can do as individuals and as a society to decrease our impact on the environment.

The farm gives great importance to self-responsibility and respect of nature. Some ground rules will be given during the stay, to respect the place, inside and outside, to respect people living in the surroundings, to respect the animals, to control the environmental impact (water, electricity...) and to create a safe and enjoyable environment for the whole duration of the project.

PARTICIPANTS

*5 participants + 1 leader per partner,
30 participants in total*

Participants have to be young people aged 18-30 interested in the topic and who are willing to discover more about it. The main point is the commitment of the participants to be involved. When it comes to the groups' leaders, they should have taken part in the Lead Up! Training Course organized by Kora in October 2022. In any case, the commitment of the participant must be a priority during the selection. Participants will bring back from the youth exchange skills and competences that can be shared and used in the activities of the organisation.

Listing the various criteria of selection:

- Motivation regarding the topic of the youth exchange;
- Good level of English, at least to understand everything and be able to express oneself on any topic
- Commitment to organise a small dissemination event after the youth exchange.

Even though it is not a primary requirement, it would be appreciated if the participants participating in the youth exchange belong at some level to the category of fewer opportunities. It is not mandatory, but partners are asked to check that on candidates, and, if similar conditions are given among more candidates, prefer to involve youth workers with fewer opportunities.
